

Mere Sin

By Glenn Currier

Your sin cannot remove you from me for just beyond what you can see I am there seeking your body and mind you cannot restrict me or confine my grace and its reach but you must act to mend the breach.
Even though your human craving makes you think you aren't worth saving if you turn back to me, stretch out your hand take hold of the silver band I will snatch you up to me and here in my arms again you are new and free.

"Mere Sin," Copyright 2019 by Glenn Currier Written 7-23-19