

JEKYLL & HYDE

Collaborated Poem by

Glenn Currier & Elizabeth Hobbs

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde scared me into staying inside a fiction in film and book what was the story's hook?

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde
very different side by side
One is such a sweet old thang
The other is mean as a hard rain

The hook, there's a bit in me & you which makes us do the things we do Even Apostle Paul in all his glory recites his dilemma and what a story

Romans 7:19 will give you a peek and maybe answers that we seek we do the bad we do not wish instead of veggies the dish delish.

The Jekyll in us is gentle and kind the Hyde wants to kick the saint's behind Now lets decide which be you, which be I I be sweet Dr. Jekyll, you be that Hyde guy!

Glenn and Elizabeth read together pointing at each other

Author's Note: This was read at a meeting of the group, Poetry in Progress," and on that last line Glenn points to himself on the first five words and then points to Elizabeth on the last five words.

"Jekyll and Hyde," Copyright 2012 by Glenn Currier and Elizabeth Hobbs Written 2-1-12